OXFORD COUNTY VOTE IS STRONG FOR PAUL THURSTON

Practically every Democrat in Oxford County will go to the polls in the primary election, June 20, and that vote will be well-nigh unanimous for Paul C. Thurston of Bethel for Governor according to present indications.

The size and solidity of the Oxford County vote is looked upon by close political observers as certain to play an important part in giving the nomination to the Bethel candidate.

It will be recalled that another Democratic candidate for Governor from Oxford County—the late Bertrand G. McIntire of Norway—came within 5,000 votes of defeating Governor Carl E. Milliken, Republican, for re-election in 1918. One of the last public acts of Mr. McIntire was to give his unqualified endorsement to the Thurston candidacy. In fact, it was only after the earnest solicitation of the Democratic leaders of Oxford County that Thurston decided to become a candidate for Governor.

During the more than a dozen years in which Thurston has been the State Committeeman from Oxford County there has been built up in this formerly rock-ribbed Republican county a Democratic organization of such strength as to pare closely the Republican majority, several times electing the Democratic candidate for sheriff and obtaining from three to four of the eight members of the Maine House of Representatives to which the county is entitled.

Republican leaders are giving consideration to the possibility that Thurston's nomination may swing Oxford completely Democratic in September.

The strength of the Thurston movement in Oxford is augmented by the work of organizations in all parts of the State, extending from York and Cumberland to the far northern and eastern counties of Washington and Aroostook.

Thurston has just returned from a trip to Machias where he was the principal speaker at an overflow meeting of the Roosevelt Club of Washington County. Much enthusiasm greeted his definite presentation of his position upon the important State issues of economy, equalization of taxes, elimination of waste in the highway department, reduction of the State budget and strengthening of the Public Utilities Commission in the interests of those served by the utilities.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy J. Edwards of this town, and Linwood Alton Dingley of Portland, took place Wednesday evening, June 8, at the Immanuel Baptist Church, Portland.

William H. Jones, D.D., pastor of the church, and Rev. Merle S. Conant officiated in the double ring service. The church was decorated with palms and lilacs and music was played by Miss Susan G. Coffin. Mrs. Evelyn Badger Carroll sang.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Fred L. Edwards. She wore a gown of white satin and lace with a lace veil caught with orange blossoms and carried calla lilies. Miss M. Isabelle Jones, as maid of honor, wore blue chiffon with turban in harmony and carried an old fashioned bouquet.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Barber of Boston, Miss Anna Iyer of Portland, Miss Rebecca Carter of Bethel and Mrs. Olive Hannaford of Bar Mills wore pastel shades of tulle with turbans and carried old fashioned bouquets.

Best man and ushers were James E. O'Brien, Theodore Stone, Robert Johnson and James Black, all of Portland.

A reception was held at the Columbia Hotel where Miss Patricia Brown was in charge of the guest book.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Edwards of Bethel, was graduated from Gould Academy and from the Bethel college school. The past fall and winter she has been employed at the Mercantile Trust Co. She is a member of the Rossett club and the Emmanuel vestal choir. Mr. Dingley, son of Sgt. and Mrs. George A. Dingley of Washington Avenue, is president of Dingley's Inc.

SUPERIOR COURT

A criminal case brought before the jury was that of State vs. Clifford H. Hayward and Wilson Dunsmore, both of Dixfield. The indictment said that these men threatened to kill Maurice Dunsmore and his wife Grace. After hearing the evidence, Justice Manser directed a verdict of not guilty, saying that the evidence did not prove the charge.

A sentence of $100 fine and two months in jail was suspended for Anthony Snykus of Rumford, who pleaded guilty to unlawful possession.

Frances Hayes of Rumford, keeping and depositing, was given a sentence of $100 and two months in jail.

Ernest Marchand, unlawful possession, was given fine, costs and jail sentence. As Marchand is at present ill in bed, sentence was suspended until he can be moved to the jail.

In the case of Alva Rich vs. the town of Roxbury for breach of contract in transporting scholars, a verdict of $110 was returned in favor of the plaintiff.

MISS MONA MARTIN HONORED AT SHOWER TUESDAY EVENING

The old saying, "It never rains but it pours," proved true on Tuesday evening when there was a torrential "downpour" at lower Church Street when Miss Mona Martin was given a variety shower at her home at eight o'clock. Mona was pleasantly and very completely surprised when upon hearing the blasts of many horns, she looked out to see some 40 of her friends alighting from the autos which filled the driveway. When she reached the door she was presented with an immense and beautifully decorated June Box containing many gifts from her friends in town.

Mona, in her genial and original manner, invited her guests to enter, and after the confusion of seating all in the living room was over and Mona had gained her "equilibrium," she proceeded to open her gifts. The attractiveness of the mysterious packages of all sizes and shapes done up in white tissue and tied with white ribbon, caused everyone present to share in the spirit of excitement which prevailed on all sides. Two very young ladies, Marcella Smith and Mary Lou Chapman, enjoyed this "shower" to the utmost and by the expression of their eyes one imagined they expected at any minute to see "Santa" popping out from some corner.

The gifts numbering 107 included many beautiful pieces of china, silver, pewter, glassware, towels, pictures, then, many pieces of handwork and many other gifts in variety, also several gold pieces and substantial checks. Many of the gifts were accompanied by charming bits of verse of sentiment and wit.

This shower was one of the largest ever given in town and was an expression of the esteem of her many friends and appreciation of her pleasant and efficient service in the telephone exchange where she has been employed for several years, being one of the most popular operators ever employed at the office. All are delighted to know that she will continue to fill her position at the exchange.

After the gifts were displayed and greetings exchanged the guests departed, wishing Mona every good wish for the coming year. This delightful affair was given in honor of her approaching marriage to Lee Wentzell of Bethel.

INVESTIGATE AND INTERPRET

"Investigation is more important today than interpretation," says a learned theologian in a current periodical. Of course he is speaking of the Holy Bible. Now, if after nearly 2000 years, this educator finds that the great demand of the day is for investigation, I should say that scholastic criticism has signally failed, and it is strange that the critic can thus display his ignorance without being aware of it. What he means is that investigation has failed to adduce evidence sufficient to discredit the Scriptures. Twenty centuries more of investigation and criticism will fail to shake the eternal Word of God. Inspired by the Holy Spirit, holy men of old spoke as the Spirit gave them utterance, and the sentences that fell from their lips are true and beyond human wisdom to refute.

Candidate for Republican Nomination for Sheriff

PRIMARIES, JUNE 20th

Fellow Republicans:

I am writing to remind you that I am a candidate for Sheriff of Oxford County, on the Republican ticket, and would ask for your active support and vote at the June Primaries.

To those with whom I'm not personally acquainted, this letter will serve as an introduction, and also give me the opportunity to assert myself as one strongly determined on law enforcement; this fact can be avouched for by all who know me.

My success in this undertaking depends entirely upon the assistance of such voters as yourself. It is the intelligent voting element of Oxford County that I am appealing to, and feel morally certain of their support.

Another point which I would bring to bear in my effort, is the fact that this, the largest and most important town in the County, has as yet to be the home of Oxford's High Sheriff.

I believe that I can operate the sheriff's department of Oxford County as economically—if not more so—than any other previous administration. Because of my experience as a deputy sheriff, during which time I became familiar with the work of the various members of the department. I learned several economy moves and also contemplated several others which I believe if put into effect will be of great saving to the voters of Oxford County.

In closing may I thank you in advance for such aid as you may render me, with my pledge to you as voters, that if elected to the office which I seek, I will faithfully perform my duties, to the best of my ability.

BEST HOPPERS FOR THE YOUNG CHICKS

Cup Flats Recommended as Suitable.

Cup flats used for packing eggs in cases make excellent hoppers for chicks during the first week after they are hatched. The uneven surface of the cup flats holding the wash and reducing the amount of waste, advises J. G. Taylor, of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station. By using first one side of the cup flats and then the other each day their durability will be prolonged. The best results will be procured if one flat is used for each hundred chicks.

Urging that small, open-box hoppers be used after the birds are one week old, Mr. Taylor states that a very satisfactory "reel hopper" can be made at home. A trough or box 6 inches wide, 2½ inches deep and 4 feet long is the hopper, with a reel 4 inches in diameter running its entire length and so adjusted at each end that it can be raised and lowered to prevent the chicks from wasting the mash. If both sides of this hopper are used 100 chicks can be fed from it at a time.

Commercial hoppers are obtainable at a moderate cost, the size to be determined by the size of the chicks. Experienced poultrymen have found the open type most economical for the feeding mash to poultry of all ages.

Water fountains for the chicks should be so constructed that they may be easily cleaned and not upset. The most satisfactory fountain for the first ten days is the earthenware bell jar with the flower pot saucer, a type of fountain suitable for 100 chicks. Large metal fountains should be used when the chicks are four weeks old—Michigan Farmer.

Watch Eggs Intended for Hatching Purposes

In keeping eggs for setting purposes, it should be remembered that too high temperatures do more harm than chilling. A temperature of 75 degrees will start some germ development, which is very harmful, it is stated. Thus, for best hatching results, eggs should be kept at a temperature below 70 degrees, and above freezing.

Eggs, generally, hatch better the fresher they are, but it is sometimes necessary to save them as long as two weeks. When eggs are saved they should be turned over once or twice daily. They should be kept over a damp sack to help keep them warm and prevent excessive evaporation of water from them. Heavy coats of water from eggs is a cause of rot and mold and chicks.

Eggs should never be washed. If necessary, they should be dipped in a solution of 1 part of formalin to 100 parts of water. This allows hatching to proceed through the shell and not through the pores.

Worm Young Chicks

A common cause of chick mortality is the presence of worms in the feed. It is a fact that worms are found in feed in many cases.

For some time the presence of worms in feed has been a problem for many poultrymen. The worms are most numerous in the warm, moist, and dark places, such as under the feed, in the feed troughs, and in the feed bins.

It is a fact that worms are found in feed in many cases. It is a fact that worms are found in feed in many cases.

Farm Chicken Census

According to figures of the United States Census Bureau, published recently, the number of chickens on farms in the country in April 1, 1931, the leading states of the nation as to number of chickens were: California, 1,000,000; Michigan, 800,000; Texas, 700,000; Kansas, 600,000; Ohio, 500,000; Pennsylvania, 400,000; New York, 300,000; and Illinois, 200,000.

Pullorum Disease

The accuracy of the blood test for pullorum disease in mature birds has recently been submitted to an interesting test, according to a recent article in the Rural New Yorker. Blood samples were drawn from a group of 1000 birds and the poultry disease laboratories in three different states were furnished with the blood samples. Each state laboratory applied its own technique of testing. There was practically no variation in the reported findings from the three laboratories.

NEW ENGLAND APPLES A MODERATE CROP

Reports with regard to the amount of bloom and weather conditions during the apple blossom period indicate that the 1932 apple crop in New England is likely to be only a moderate crop. Reports from growers indicate that the apple bloom was generally good to heavy in the New England States. Baldwins carried a heavy bloom in Maine but a typically light bloom in the other states. The date of full bloom was somewhat later than usual this year particularly in southern New England. McIntosh were in full bloom from May 16 in Connecticut to May 23 in Maine compared with May 13 to May 24 respectively last year. Baldwins were reported in full bloom from May 19 in Connecticut to May 26 in Maine as compared with May 16 to 26 respectively in 1931.

Weather conditions were rather unfavorable to the fruit bloom. Temperature averaged somewhat above normal for the month of May and sunshine was generally abundant. May rainfall was materially below normal. Two cold snaps with freezing temperature at the height of the blooming period on May 9 and May 24 respectively undoubtedly reduced the set of fruit. Owing to the late bloom the set of fruit could not be determined on June 1, the date to which this report refers. The condition of apples in New England on June 1 was placed at 53% compared with 75% last year and 55% the ten year average.

For the country as a whole the condition of apples was reported on June 1 at 55.5% as compared with 75.7% reported on June 1 last year and 58.3% the ten year average. In general the apple crop was set back by the late frost in many sections and a light set of fruit is reported from many important sections. In New York the bloom was heavy for all varieties except Baldwins. The central states report a light set of fruit. The Piedmont district of Virginia reports a very light set but conditions are better in the Cumberland-Shenandoah section.

NATURE PROTECTS WATER IF GIVEN A CHANCE

Give nature a chance and the drinking water supply for rural families will usually be pure, says C. N. Turner, agricultural engineer for the Extension Service, who explains that filtration through soil and action by soil bacteria render most "water borne" disease germs harmless.

Following are practical methods of protecting the water supply which Mr. Turner suggests. The shallow well should be at least 300 feet from any possible source of contamination. In order to eliminate the entrance of surface water, a tight well should be laid around the well for a depth of at least ten feet and should project one foot above the ground level. The general slope of the soil should be away from the well to help carry away waste and surface water. There should be a tight cover slab of concrete or stone over the well to prevent the entrance of vermin, contamination from muddy feet and other foreign matter.

Deep well: The most important precaution to observe in protecting a deep well is to have the joints which occur between the casing and ledge formation absolutely water tight. Then be very sure that the top of the casing extends from 12-18 inches above the soil level and that it is well protected. Springs: Often times springs are left unprotected because of the fear of losing the supply. Most any spring can be safely protected by walling up a water tight box and placing a tight cover over it. The surface water can be most effectively diverted by such a wall banked with soil and also by encircling the spring with a diversion ditch on the upper side. A spring so protected not only insures a safer supply but also keeps foreign material from stopping up the outlet pipe and keep a reserve supply on hand for a dry time.

OLD AT 50 OR YOUNG AT 70, OFTEN DUE TO EATING

"Old age is not simply a matter of years; it is a condition of the body. Some people are old at fifty. Others seem young at seventy. It is all a matter of keeping the body fit, and food is one of the most important items in keeping fit," says Therese E. Wood, food specialist for the Extension Service, who gives some pointers about eating as it relates to age.

"The secret of many people living to a ripe old age is probably due to a great extent to the sort of a diet followed. A great many of the middle aged breakdowns, so called overwork, may be simply the result of disregarding the simple rules of good nutrition and health.

Now this question of how much to eat is not a simple one. Much of the trouble naturally begins to develop at this period of life. The average person that was carried on at this time to grow to old and mature age, need for fuel food also grows. The habits of eating are still the same and appetite probably good. There is the reason for that gain in weight that so frequently occurs in middle life. These extra pounds are a good indication that more fuel food is being eaten than is required and that it is much time to cut down in quantity. Power rich diet, meat in moderation, plenty of milk, eggs, fruit and vegetables. The quality of the food, then, must be good.

satisfy the appetite, and drink plenty of water to keep the body in good condition.

"Now after middle age, when true old age sets in, other food problems arise. The internal processes of an aged person are considerably slowed up. Therefore, caring for any excess food becomes difficult and overeating may be decidedly dangerous. From sixty on the body tends to lose rather than to gain weight. Foods to be used sparingly are rich sauces, cakes and puddings, pastries and fried foods.

"Meals for middle age and after should be planned with moderation and simplicity as the keynote."

CUCUMBER BEETLES ARE READY TO BEGIN WORK

Cucumber beetles are hungry for the first cucumber plants to come through the ground; in fact they do most of their damage before the cucumbers have three or four leaves, says Richard M. Riley, instructor in horticulture at the College of Agriculture. The beetles winter in weeds and rubbish as adults, emerge early in the spring and feed on the leaves and flowers of wild plants but seek cucumber, melon, or squash plants nearby.

They have a double threat; in addition to eating leaves and stems and sometimes killing the plants outright, the beetles also distribute wilt. The wilt organism, he explains, lives over winter in the digestive tract of the beetle.

In small gardens it is best to keep the beetles away from the plants with wire screen cones, well-covered with dirt at the base. Commercial growers often dust or spray, not so much to kill the beetles as drive them away. Nicotine dusts are limited in their usefulness for they need a high temperature and still air to be effective. Treatment should begin when the plants are about a week old, with a dust mixed at the rate of one pound of calcium arsenate to 20 pounds of gypsum. A Bordeaux mixture spray of three pounds each of lime and copper sulphate to 50 gallons of water with two pounds of arsenate of lead is also effective. Success with either dust or spray depends on thoroughly covering the plants once a week for at least the first month.

Chester Ladd, Bethel, expects to have 24 acres in potatoes this year. He is looking some toward certification of at least part of this acreage. This is in addition to a herd of 20 or more good dairy cows.

COMMENT EVENT AT GOULD

pendence toward one's fellow-man and God throughout life.

The music was under the direction of Mrs. Frank Russell as organist. Two vocal solos rendered by Miss Margaret Carter of Portland and Bethel, and two selections by a quartet composed of Mrs. Leland A. Edwards, Nahum Moore, Percy Brink, and Arthur Dufley were very much enjoyed. The choir, in cap and gown, lent dignity to the service with provided by the church but effectively decorated church. The audience, unswayed by the attractive appearance of the speaker, was one of the largest in years.

Annual Luncheon
The Annual Luncheon was held in the Marion Ten-tening Students' Home under the direction of Mrs. Mary Campbell, Marion, who had prepared an excellent menu, assisted by the staff, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Garrett.

A recent picture of Mrs. Gehring graced the head of the table of the Class of 1932 as Partners of the Twentieth Century Club and near it a vase of dark red roses from the Club.

The luncheon was followed by the business meeting of the Alumni Association. President Ernest H. Hobbins, presiding. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and the following officers were elected: President, John H. Carter, Jr.; Vice-President, Mrs. Agnes Twiss; Secretary, Lucius Brown; Treasurer, Carrie White; Executive Committee, Barbara Lyon, Margaret Herrick, Doris Lord, H. C. Rowe, H. Herbert Bean and Betty Anderson. President Hobbins called for reports from the "five year" classes and the following reports were given: Wright 1927, H. C. Rowe 1928, Herbert Bean 1929, Alice Munde 1930, Gertrude Munde 1931, and C. C. Carter 1932.

Dr. Hancom responded in a witty and forceful manner and encouraged the past and present attending the crowded conditions in the Academy building, which was built 15 years ago. He called attention to the fact that the steadily increasing number of day pupils is leading to a reduction in the number of boarding pupils which the school can accommodate. This condition seriously affects the proper administration of the Academy in providing a true educational service in keeping with the ideals of Gould Academy.

A telegram from Mr. Blagham and Dr. and Mrs. Gehring, conveying commendations and greetings and assurances of thoughtful interest in Gould Academy was read by Dr. Hancom and the secretary was instructed to telegraph return greetings of the Alumni Association.

Dr. Hancom expressed the pleasure of the Alumni Association at the presence of Mrs. J. M. Plathbrook of Bethel, the oldest living graduate of Gould Academy, and presented her with a large bouquet of roses. Mrs. Plathbrook is now in her ninety-third year and attended the Academy, 75 years ago. Her husband was an active member of Gould Academy for many years.

Prof. H. C. Rowe of Bates College, who was invited to the event, spoke and he gave a very witty and interesting talk on "Fame and Personality."

Baseball Game
The weekly baseball team completed its season on Wednesday with a convincing victory over the "Reds" 10-4. The game began with a double in the fourth inning when they scored four runs. The only extra base hit of the day was a triple by Quinby. No man on either team got more than one hit during the game. Brown was easily the star of the game. Hancom in a two hit game, against a group of men who have played considerable ball, as well as striking out 15 men, is a mean accomplishment.

For the Alumni Master of the game, Palla began on the mound. He has been playing for the Bethel team for the past 25 years. Although he is not now an active player, he still has the heart of a champion and he kept the ball in his hand until they got it hit in the fourth. He was relieved by Jack Gill in the fifth but Gill has not gotten into shape and could not get going. Hinkley completed the final innings on the mound for the graduates. Chesebro, who played for M. C. I. this Spring, did the reeling, and although he is considered quite a batter, he was held hitless. Harris, a player of a number of years back, who has the reputation of hitting the first home run on the new athletic field, played third base and got one of the Alumni's two hits. Wheeler, Gill, and Willard are of the class of 1928 and were members of the Gould team that won the last Oxford County Championship. Cloddard is well known for his playing ability, being a Bethel veteran. Saunders played in 1929 and '30 and has played considerable since at Hanover. Hinkley played for Gould in 1929, '30 and '31 while Hamilton dates back to 1928.

THE D. S. BROOKS LETTER

Bethel Hill, Bethel, Me.
June 16, 1932.

To the Citizen Family,
Dear Friends:

We have wondered why some of our good friends object to the name of Bethel Hill, as applied to our elevation of ground. Let me, once and for all, explain why I desire the change; and then I shall forever keep silent as to the matter. You, who have lived around here all your days and prefer to cling to the other name that perfect right, and it will not disturb my peace at all. I assure you that I have great respect for the name of Holt; for all bearing that name, at my acquaintance, are nice people. I feel that Joseph Holt, former owner of this farm and a long-time resident upon the hill that bears his name, would be shocked could he come back to life and know of the terrible wickedness that has been committed on his old homestead, since his decease nearly a quarter of a century ago. The rotten actions have been a disgrace to the purity of the name. And I believe if he knew and could speak he would say change the name. I suppose that some of the people who have lived here in the last twenty years were clean and honest folk. But a little less than five years ago, Mr. Fogg of Gorham, N. H., became tired of short names to "Tom, Dick, and Harry" and said, "It is enough." He painstakingly boarded up the windows and locked the doors. The house, then, was not all knocked to pieces; and the fine well of water in the shed had not been polluted by the pack of "gypsies." Without obtaining permission, the house was criminally entered; the boards torn off the windows, and the demons came in to live; and what went on following this until we thought the place is altogether too shameful to relate. Many years ago, I had out-buildings where I could keep hogs, and have known what it was to clean up the pens; and they were respectable swine at that, but no decent pig would have stayed here one night with the "et cetera" that we found. We were three whole days scraping, sweeping, and removing rubbish before we could begin to use disinfectants and hot, soapy water. Praise God, it's an altogether different place than what we found it. It is humble and plain. Nearly all the citizens in town know of the class of whom I am writing, that brought such taint and disgrace to the place. A little more than a year ago, one of this tribe, a person of rough and vulgar mouth threatened to strike me with his fist, but I stood for right principles and was not in the least frightened by the "big bluff." This fellow, if he can be called a man, uttered such awful profanity that I hold it over him,—subject to a sworn warrant for arrest at the first occasion that he gives me to carry it into effect. Heretofore I have been treated with respect by all my acquaintances. I can honestly say that while I am a man of peace, I am not a timid soul! I had as soon pass in range of a loaded gun about to be discharged, if duty calls, as to sit down to eat my dinner. Now all these disturbing things have been very hard to endure. These characters have the credit of making this place vile. But no more carousing can be done here and, with the transformation we like a new name. And who can reasonably object to calling this Bethel Hill from now on? Angels can once more visit here, as in the far distant past, and have no fear of soiling their wings. I like good company and will be pleased at any time, to welcome such callers; and can, if you desire to remain over night, offer you a clean, decent room with a comfortable bed. One reason for selecting this for a home, to some other place, was to give a real concrete illustration to my town's people of what God can do in clearing out the filth and rubbish in a repentant sinner's heart and make it a clean place for his holy spirit to dwell.

I believe the crisis in my feeble health is passed, and that my prayers will be answered for soundness of body. I, too, firmly believe that the present sanitary condition of our place with the raising of fruit and vegetables for a wholesome diet, together with the peace of a clear conscience that we are serving God will be conducive to a good, long, span of years.

In another matter, until now, we have purposely kept our own counsel; relative to a very live ambition which has long been cherished: I believe that I possess the qualifications that make for the office of County Sheriff. But I did not want to enter into any political contest for office this year. I have respect for the present incumbent. He may have a desire to succeed himself in the September election. I am studying conditions all about me and shall acquaint myself thoroughly with facts concerning each town in the county. This is my announcement, through the Citizen, of my intention to run for this office either in 1934 or '36, whichever date later seems best suited to my candidacy. I want first the people of Oxford County to have the opportunity to know me and learn of my principles and objectives. In due time, you will know my disposition, ability, and courage to tackle problems of intemperance and immorality and all the different phases of a sheriff's routine and duty.

Pardon me for digressing, but every one knows—for example—how our game laws, which come under a different department from what I have been speaking, are trampled upon. I say that when a thing is a benefit to the greatest number of people make it a law and abide by it with respect. I despise a sneak who, like a snake, tries to crawl around and under to avoid being discovered and breaks the law. Some hunters plan to kill more than one deer in a season; many animals are "jacked" and slaughtered in defiance of law, and are trucked away under cover of darkness. Some men make it a business to camp in the big woods and kill many deer for pay while pretending to only act as guides. If this "coat" seems to fit closely over anyone's shoulders, let them come to me, and, possibly I can "tallor" it so it will draw even tighter. I have my convictions on right and wrong; and I may have other "verbal garments" too, that will fit them before they leave. I have a pleasant little secret to tell you who are law-abiding: a mother partridge, this Spring, has been sitting upon her nest of eleven eggs right near our house—I shall

Now in closing, I wish to add these few words for your consideration. When all departments of government have honest and trusted men for executives, there will be peace and prosperity for all. Such a man is next Monday, for the nomination of governor of the grand old state of Maine. I say, fellow citizens, "tag off" to Paul C. Thurston of Bethel. Make him your choice, with the largest vote ever accorded a candidate.

The Universalist Sunday School held Sunday exercises following the Children's Day exercises. This is done every Sunday. There is a large number of small children in the primary department and every effort is made by the teachers as they are aided like public schools. The school is open earlier than usual in the fall. The church services will close on 10, until Sept. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Libby were given a reception Tuesday evening at the Will Hall. A large number were present to extend their good wishes to this family, who for the past ten years have lived here, loved and respected by a large circle of friends in this vicinity. Not only has Mr. Libby won the affection of his pupils as an educator, but Mr. and Mrs. Libby have always given their influence and support to the worth-while interests of the village. An entertaining program was presented, consisting of music by the school orchestra; piano solo, Gertrude Emery; readings, Mrs. Lucy Barrows; solo and encore, Mrs. H. Hill. Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes, on behalf of the community, presented Mr. and Mrs. Libby a nice rug, silver candle sticks and book ends. The gifts were expression of good will from 160 citizens. Henry S. Stone spoke, representing the high school alumni, and the Boy Scouts attended, marshaled by W. G. Lane. Refreshments were served.

Friends here learned with regret of the death of Harry H. Hamilton of Greenfield, Mass., on Saturday, June 4. Mr. Hamilton has been ill several weeks from Bright's disease. He was a native of Blue Hill, Me. After graduating from Colby College he came to West Paris as teacher in the village school, which then consisted of many different classes. He married Miss Fannie F. Dunham, daughter of the late Samuel F. and Rachel (Andrews) Dunham, who survives him, with their four children. Mr. Hamilton has been in the shoe business for many years and was operating three stores at the time of his death.

Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes was in Lewiston to attend the commencement exercises, and attended a reunion of her class of 1882.

The Veterans of the Spanish War held a reunion at Snow Falls Inn Sunday. Twenty veterans and many members of their families were present. A delicious dinner was served to all who desired. Music was furnished by West Paris and South Paris musicians.

Mrs. Julia Leach of Brockton, Mass., is spending some time with her cousin, Rev. E. B. Forbes. Mrs. Leach motored to Maine with her daughter, Miss Carrie Pratt, and Stan Lawson. Rev. A. E. Maxwell came Wednesday with his household goods. His sister, Miss Maxwell of Portland, will be housekeeper for him for a few weeks.

Mrs. Ella Day was at Gorham Normal School the first of the week to attend the graduating exercises of her daughter Lettie.

The West Paris High School Alumni banquet at Grange Hall Friday evening was a very pleasant occasion. Over 100 were present. The Georgian Orchestra of Lewiston furnished music. The toastmaster was Harold C. Perham of Minot. Sam Foss, Jr., of Lewiston was the speaker. Dancing followed, with a large number present.

Miss Dorothy Dean gave her pupils of the grammar school a party Friday afternoon. After games had been enjoyed, delicious refreshments were served.
